FORMERLY SCOGIN ELAM AND BRAY ARCHITECTS

office@msmearch.com www.msmearch.com

Mack Scogin Merrill Elam Architects was formed in order to take full advantage of the complimentary skills and talents of the two principals. Projects by Mack Scogin and Merrill Elam have received over 40 design awards, including five National American Institute of Architects Awards of Excellence. Together they received the 1995 Academy Award in Architecture from the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the 1996 Chrysler Award for Innovation in Design.

Mack Scogin and Merrill Elam have had the privilege to work with some of the most prestigious and respected clients in the world. Project types include office buildings, factories, stadia, airports, health facilities, houses, dormitories, classroom and studio facilities, campus centers, libraries, museums, galleries, exhibitions, schools, warehouses and jails, among others.

Current projects include the Wang Campus Center and Davis Garage for Wellesley College in Massachusetts; the United States Federal Courthouse in Austin, Texas; a School of Architecture for The Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio; a Music Library for The University of California at Berkeley in California; and the Herman Miller Cherokee Operations facility in Canton, Georgia.
